Amphion Honored at California Small Business Day™ 2017

Sacramento, CA (June 20, 2017)—Amphion was honored by Assemblyman Marc Steinorth at California Small Business Day™ as Small Business of the Year in AD 40. Amphion was celebrated for their hard work and dedication to the community.

“I’m honored to recognize Scott Denton and Amphion as the 2017 Small Business of the Year for AD 40,” Assemblyman Marc Steinorth said. “It’s companies like Amphion that help this great community thrive.”

“It was a supreme honor for me to accept this award on behalf of Amphion,” said Chief Executive Officer Scott Denton. “We are pleased to be recognized for our dedication to this community as well as our unwavering devotion to our customers and hard-working employees.”

California Small Business Day honored 85 small businesses for their contribution to the state’s economy. Small business contributes to 75% of California’s gross state product and over half of the state’s private sector jobs. From hardware stores to manufacturers, small businesses are engrained in California’s communities and economy.

“California’s small businesses are the economic engine of our state,” said Betty Jo Toccoli, President of the California Small Business Association. “Amphion was celebrated for their successful small business and contributions to the community.”
